Asks to government

1. In the run-up to, or at COP26, the government commits to all UK schools being net zero carbon by 2030 and announces long term and consistent policies and funding to enable this.
2. Government ensures there is investment in training teachers in education for sustainable development across the curriculum, and in equipping colleges and schools to give all learners a connection to nature
3. The government commits to investing in adapting and retrofitting the school estate
4. The Department for Education commits to improving their building specifications, so that all new school buildings from 2022 onwards will be net zero carbon.
5. By 2025, every school is mandated to have a funded Climate Action Plan that provides step by step guidance cutting through the current complicated procedures that will result in zero carbon status.
6. Every school should have a trained staff member who acts as a sustainability lead.
7. Sustainability to be embedded as a statutory feature of careers guidance in UK schools by 2025
